

About Retina Gallery

RetinaGallery.com is a free web site for teaching and learning through exchange of interesting retina cases and the sharing of high quality images of retinal diseases. Visitors can download images from RetinaGallery.com without registering or a fee. RetinaGallery.com was inspired by the tradition of fluorescein conferences where ophthalmologists and retina specialists discuss interesting case presentations. Retina Gallery has been online since October 20, 2010.

Registration at RetinaGallery.com site is free and open to all retina physicians and allied personnel.

RetinaGallery includes a discussion forum where retina specialists participate in discussions of interesting or puzzling cases. Retina specialists can also start discussion topics and link discussions to images uploaded to the web site.

There are several free instructional videos on how to use RetinaGallery.com

Images on this website are not copyrighted and therefore they can be used for presentations and also for publications. For more details please visit RetinaGallery.com
